

Important Information about Procedures For Opening a New Loan

To help the government fight the funding of terrorism and money laundering activities, Federal law requires all financial institutions to obtain, verify, and record information that identifies each person who opens an account, including loans.

What this means for you: When you apply for a loan, we will ask for your name, address, date of birth, and other information that will allow us to identify you. We will also ask to copy your driver's license or other identifying documents.

At the time you submit your loan application to us, please provide your driver's license or other photo identification for us to copy. If submitting the application by mail, we can verify your identification at the time of loan closing. Because of federal laws, we cannot close your loan until all applicants have provided identification to a representative of Bloomsdale Bank.

Note to existing customers: Even though you may have previous loans or other accounts with Bloomsdale Bank, we are still required to obtain your identification to place in the loan file. Unfortunately, our federal regulators don't know you as we do and will be looking for a copy of your ID when they examine our loan files. We apologize for any inconvenience these changes may cause and we truly appreciate your cooperation in complying with the new regulations and helping in the fight against terrorism and money laundering.

WHAT DOES BLOOMSDALE BANK DO WITH YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION?

Rev. 4-1-16

Why?

Financial companies choose how they share your personal information. Federal law gives consumers the right to limit some but not all sharing. Federal law also requires us to tell you what we collect, share, and protect your personal information. Please read this notice carefully to understand what we do
